Lewis Stirs Another Wartime Coal Crisis

RE-SEIZURE OF MINES LOOMING AS POSSIBILITY

Situation Holds Serious Threat of Stoppage Of Production
SUPERVISORS MAY QUIT
Union Demands Bargaining Rights For 65,000 Men Directing Operations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Another wartime coal crisis, with possible re-seizure of the mines by the government, was present today as result of John L. Lewis' efforts to expand District 50 and win bargaining rights for 65,000 mine supervisory employees.

Edward R. Burke, president of the Southern Appalachian Coal Producers' Association, said the situation held "a serious threat of national coal production stoppages," unless a solution is found immediately. Strike ballots are scheduled in ten southern mines next month.

All told, the clerical, technical and supervisory divisions of District 50 is a "catch-all" adjunct of a big United Mine Workers Union, has filed strike notices under the Smith-Connally act in more than 70 mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and Alabama. They produce high grade coal vital to steel production.

Seven mines in Western Pennsylvania employing some 4,300 workers already are shut down with a loss of more than 20,000 tons of coal daily.

Would Close Mines
A walkout by the 65,000 supervisory employees would throw nearly half a million UMW production workers into idleness, since state laws provide that the mines cannot operate unless staffed by certain foremen and supervisors.

To avert another closure of the nation's coal pits it might thus become necessary for the government to seize the mines one by one as the supervisory employees go out. Ironically, the strike ballots are being taken under the act rushed through by congress last summer over President Roosevelt's veto in direct retaliation against Lewis for earlier mine strikes.

The Smith-Connally law gives unions the legal right to file a notice of a strike and take a ballot 30 days later.

WLB Plea Rejected

John McAlpine, president of the supervisory division of District 50, yesterday rejected a War Labor Board request that he recommend a return to work by the Pennsylvania strikers. He agreed to present the WLB's "point of view" at a mass meeting today, but it was considered unlikely the strikers would return to work.

McAlpine explained that the su-

Russ Refuse Air Bases For British, U. S. Aid To Poles At Warsaw

LONDON, Aug. 29—Vernon Bartlett, London News Chronicle writer and British member of parliament, today charged that Moscow refused a joint American-British request for air bases from which arms could be supplied to Warsaw.

Bartlett, writing in the Chronicle, said that the United States and Britain had recently made urgent requests that the air shuttle service between Italy and Russia, which has enabled the Allies to give such valuable and timely aid to the Soviet armies, would be developed so that supplies could be sent to the Polish capital.

The News Chronicle writer added that the Russians have broadcast promises of help to the beleaguered Poles, but the promises were accompanied by threats to court martial the leaders of the Warsaw revolt, although it is costing the Germans heavy casualties.

The Polish government in London is partly responsible for the existing situation, Bartlett continued, because it left to Gen. Bor the choice of the moment for the insurrection which began without prior consultation with the American, Soviet or British governments.

This unilateral action was almost more than foolish, the writer stated, and by taking it some of the members of the Polish government undoubtedly hoped that their compatriots would liberate Warsaw in the same way the French liberated Paris.

Others hoped that this evidence of the strength of the resistance movement under his control would strengthen the hand of Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Polish prime minister, who was on his way to Moscow, Bartlett said.

But the Russians, he declared, not unnaturally resented military action which might lead to German troop movements unsuited to their own plans.

Still more they objected to its political implications which deepened their suspicion that the Polish government in London was seeking to forestall them, Bartlett concluded.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—The house opened debate today on the George postwar reconversion bill amid indications that attempts to liberalize it would be defeated and the senate-approved measure passed before the week is out. Senate concurrence would be necessary before final passage because of house amendments.

The house schedule called for two days of general debate on the controversial measure after which it will be thrown open to amendments offered from the floor. Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., chairman of the ways and means committee, in charge of the bill, predicted house approval by Friday, in time for a labor day weekend recess. Final passage was anticipated within a week or 10 days after that.

Supporters of a more liberal bill marshalled their forces for a final attempt to obtain congressional approval of federal unemployment insurance benefits for war workers who lose their jobs during the transition from war to peace. Their strength was estimated at from 50 to 120 votes.

One group indicated it would back a proposal to establish a na-

World Police Proposal Provides Prompt Action Against Aggressors

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—It was officially announced today that a "general agreement" to recommend establishment of a new League of Nations to maintain future world peace has been reached by the American, British and Soviet representatives to the Dumbarton Oaks security conference.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—A revolutionary change in American foreign policy is involved in the international police plan discussions which are underway today at Dumbarton Oaks between diplomatic and military representatives of the United States, Great Britain and Russia.

The joint plan which is being drafted at this conference calls for the President of the United States to join with the other major Allied powers in making war, if necessary, against an aggressor nation without first asking congress for a declaration of war.

The plan would commit the United States to place at the disposal of an international security council a certain part of America's armed forces to help restrain an aggressor nation.

Up To Council
The American forces would not be used unless the United States member of the security council joined in an unanimous vote of that body to use them. If he did so, however, the President of the United States would be committed to order American armed forces to support the decision of the security council immediately without first seeking congressional approval of the move.

When the final draft of this security plan has been approved by leading governments of the United Nations, the administration plans to seek congressional approval of it. Once congress has approved the plan, however, the President would be free to order the use of American armed forces to restrain aggression in any part of the world without necessarily referring the matter to congress first.

War for Peace
Administration officials do not like the use of the phrase "making war" in reference to the action the President would be committed to take if the American member of the council voted to use force.

Officials prefer to say the President would order the use of American armed forces to help preserve peace. Nevertheless, the American forces, if used for the purposes envisaged in the proposed security plan, would be

CHEAP TRAVEL BY PLANE SEEN FOLLOWING WAR

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 29—A survey compiled for the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, made public today, forecasts air passenger travel at 3.5 cents a mile and air express rates as low as 30-cents per ton-mile within five years after the close of the war.

The survey also indicates post-war air travel will increase seven-fold and air express 30-fold.

Further Resignations Loom After Weinberg Quits Post With WPB

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Reports persisted today that further resignations are in the offing at the War Production Board, after Vice Chairman Sidney Weinberg quit with a blast at "termites" and Acting Chairman J. A. Krug issued a "harmony" ultimatum.

As he announced his resignation, Weinberg, New York investment banker and friend both of WPB Chairman Donald Nelson and resigned Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson, blamed "a half dozen lower-level officials" for "sniping" at Wilson and causing him to quit.

Refusing to name them, Weinberg termed the alleged "snipers" as "peanuts looking for power." He called on Krug to "throw out the termites."

General trend of the "sniping," he said, was that Wilson was allied with "big business."

Rumors—first heard weeks ago—have been revived that Vice Chairman Donald Davis of Milwaukee, regarded as a Wilson friend, plans to step out.

Meanwhile, Krug assured the senate war investigating committee that he expects to end factionalism in WPB—with firings if necessary—and that he is in full accord with Nelson's reconversion policy—which the committee backed.

"They're going to be in one group or they're not going to be there," Krug said in reply to a committee question of whether he had a plan for ending "group conflicts."

"Discharging," he added, "sounds like a harsh remedy, but don't know any other way."

At the same time, Krug told the committee that the top-boss strife is not interfering too greatly with WPB's work.

"The job is being done," he said, "regardless of what may happen in the top echelon" of WPB. He lauded the lesser officials, who he asserted are carrying out their duties well.

Krug declared also that there are no differences between the Army and Navy and WPB, and "the reports will not confuse relations between the agencies."

Urges Publicity

He declared for publicizing WPB policies and actions, saying: "Information should come to the public in frank, unvarnished form; there is no reason why we should not lay on the table the whole WPB plan."

On reconversion he told the senate committee other agencies must share responsibilities—the plant operator must know about materials, machine tools and surplus property policies, Krug declared.

Nelson's plan of reconverting to civilian production in non-critical areas, on authority of the regional WPB office with approval of the War Manpower Commission already is in effect, Krug told the committee.

But he warned of a premature trend of workers to civilian production jobs. Although 900,000 fewer persons are employed in war work now than last December, he said, "we are having trouble finding a few hundred thousand for 'tight industries.'"

NAM Next Target For Solon Probe

Manufacturers Draw Fire Of Hillman At House Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—The National Association of Manufacturers today was made the second pre-election target of inquiry by the house committee investigating campaign expenditures following Sidney Hillman's explosive defense of his CIO Political Action committee.

Rep. Anderson (D) N. M., chairman of the house committee, announced that he expected the NAM—which Hillman accused of "lobbying in and out of congress constantly"—to be called for testimony Wednesday.

Hillman's otherwise calm recital of activities by the PAC reached the shouting stage when the veteran labor leader denounced Rep. Church (R) Ill., one of his interrogators, for describing the PAC method of fund raising as "communistic."

He challenged the Dies committee investigating un-American activities to carry out its previous plan to summon him for testimony. Hillman's scheduled appearance before the un-American activities inquiry group was postponed after Rep. Martin Dies (D) Tex., chairman, announced his political retirement. A subcommittee has been authorized to proceed with the hearings.

Anderson said the NAM was being called before the committee because of reports that various individuals had made "large contributions" to political parties. Many of these persons, he said, were members of the NAM. The special house committee wants the same kind of information from the manufacturers that it sought from the CIO, he added.

Hillman's contention that the Political Action Committee did not deserve "exclusive credit" for the defeat in recent primaries of congressmen opposed by PAC appeared to be borne out in his filed report on primary expenditures.

330 MORE BLOOD DONORS NEEDED FOR R. C. BANK

Three hundred and thirty more blood donors are needed for the Thursday and Friday visit of the Red Cross mobile unit here, the Red Cross Blood Service committee announced Tuesday.

Only 50 persons have registered to date and the county quota is 205 donors a day, the public was reminded. To date more residents of Ashville have registered than Circleville residents, so committee members said.

It is believed that many persons have not registered because they think the war is almost over. Red Cross officials point out that more blood than ever is needed in the final phases of the war in Europe and the Pacific because as the Axis is driven nearer home bases more casualties result to the ever-increasing armies of the United States.

Advance appointments are necessary so that the unit can keep on time during the visit here. In order to meet the quota 12 pints of blood must be taken every 15 minutes. The committee urges that appointments be made at once by calling 460 and that the appointments be kept.

The unit will be at the Methodist church from 12:30 to 4:45 p. m. Thursday and from 10 a. m. to 2:15 p. m. Friday.

HUNS DENY INITIATING MOVE TO BRING PEACE

LONDON, Aug. 29—The Nazi agency DNB today circulated a statement from a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman denying that Germany has initiated peace moves with the Allies.

The denial bore no explanation. There have been no recent credible reports of formal Nazi peace moves.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE.—Aug. 29—Already 100 miles east of Paris the United States 3rd Army today captured Chateau-Thierry and Soissons as they pounded eastward at break neck speed.

While the Nazi agency, DNB, reported street fighting in the city of Châlons-sur-Marne which is on the direct line of approach to the German frontier, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reported American forces in the outskirts of Vitry-La-Francoise.

The Germans, Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters said, are not believed massed in any great strength between the Marne and the German frontier. Vitry-La-Francoise is only 100 miles to the German border at the Moselle river and 70 miles to the Belgian frontier at Montmedy.

Chateau-Thierry, where American troops drove back the Germans in a bloody battle 26 years ago, lies 46 miles east northeast of Paris.

The U. S. armored column was believed to have crossed the Marne at Laferte Sous Jouarre, 33 miles due east of Paris, in a 13 mile advance from Meaux, liberated yesterday.

Light Resistance

Allied headquarters said Yank forces are meeting only light and scattered resistance north of the Marne and northeast of Troyes, where they have reached the Aube river.

Northwest of Paris, four Allied-held bridgeheads across the Seine are being strengthened and deepened to undisclosed depths.

Allied columns closing in on Brest still are meeting with bitter German resistance.

The battered remnants of the German 7th Army are being steadily compressed inside three loops west of Elbeuf in the British sector of the front and are being subjected to savage round the clock aerial attacks.

In Southern France the last German troops inside the port of Marseille and the nearby Iles du Frioul surrendered unconditionally to the French and the enemy garrison on the San Mandrier peninsula has also capitulated—ending enemy action in the Toulon area.

Thousands of Prisoners

Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson announced that thousands more German prisoners were taken by the Allies at both seaports which will soon be converted into valuable Allied naval bases.

American columns driving up the Rhone valley against remaining elements of the German 19th Army continued to close in on the Montelimar area, some 90 miles northwest of Marseille, seizing piles of abandoned equipment and vehicles.

FIRST SLAYER OF JAP IN BURMA HOME FOR VISIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—The first American soldier to kill a Jap in Burma, who is also the first casualty of American operations in that theatre, was back home in New York City on furlough today—living refutation of an earlier official Army report that he had been killed in action.

He is Sgt. Walter Katz, 24, a German refugee who earned his American citizenship "by fighting for it," he said proudly today, as a member of Merrill's Marauders.

The veteran of the battles of Guadalcanal and Myitkina, who was shot in the nose in Burma, said: "Those Japs are lousy shots, but don't kid yourself—they're tough soldiers."

troops have crossed the Rhine at several points and advanced through Nimes, approximately 60 miles west northwest of Marseille. Red Army forces rolling through Romania toward the Ploesti oil fields gathered up three important German strongpoints while the German high command admitted Red Army penetration of Hungarian territory for the first time. The Reds were reported within sight of Ploesti.

The German DNB agency announced that Russian forces had captured Buzau, 40 miles east of Ploesti. This report was unconfirmed by Allied sources.

Russian troops slashed their way 10 miles beyond the 1940 Hungarian Romanian border into Transylvania to capture the important town of Bretu.

Third Ukrainian Army troops advanced 15 miles from captured Galati and occupied the Danubian port of Braila, while an amphibious force of the Black Sea fleet took the seaport of Sulina and the Danubian port of Tulcea. These drives materially increased the threat to the great Black seaport of Constanta, the Ploesti oil fields and Bucharest, where the Germans said bloody battles were raging.

Polish forces of the Allied Eighth Army, stabbing along the Adriatic coast of the Italian front captured the important port of Fano. Other Eighth Army units driving north of the Arzilia river, were closing in around the island town of Urbino, some 15 miles south of Rimini, eastern anchor of the German Gothic line whose strong concrete fortifications in other sectors are now within sight of Allied troops.

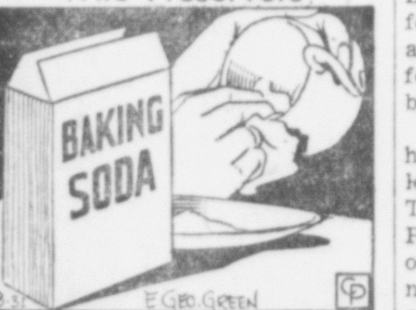

From Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters came the announcement that American air patrols have dealt another smashing blow at Japanese shipping in the Celebes area, in the Netherlands Indies. Two freighters, two freighter-transports and four smaller coastal vessels were destroyed or badly damaged in the raid. Despite heavy flak our planes returned without damage.

tional standard of benefits of $20 a week maximum, while still another, headed by Rep. Celler (D) N. Y., was prepared to submit an amendment for a weekly top of $35 for veterans and $25 for civilian workers. The two groups met today in an effort to reach an agreement on a common program.

A coalition of Democrats and Republicans, similar to that in the senate, seemed in firm control in the house, however, and the "liberal" forces were given little chance of success.

An amendment to extend jobless benefits to three and a half million federal workers was expected to receive the maximum support of members of the ways and means committee who deleted this provision from the senate bill expressed confidence the committee would be upheld.

Following approval by the house, the measure will go to a joint senate-house conference committee as the ways and means committee struck out approximately half the George bill, including provisions for a director of reemployment and retraining and the use of federal funds (up to $200 a family) for returning stranded war workers to their homes or new jobs.

The committee-revised bill would continue the present Office of War Demobilization created by the President and authorize the states to borrow from the federal government to maintain the solvency of their unemployment compensation funds.

O'DEA'S HOMER GIVES CARDS WIN OVER REDS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29—Tomas De La Cruz was to go to the mound for the Cincinnati Reds tonight in an effort to avenge a 3 to 2 defeat inflicted on the Rhinelanders by the St. Louis Cards yesterday.

Morton Cooper hurled his one hundredth victory of his major league career in last night's game. The Reds were ahead 2 to 0 until Pinch-hitter Ken O'Dea knocked one of Harry Gumbert's ninth-inning pitches out of the park to score three runs and give the Cardinals a 3 to 2 win.

Gumbert allowed 11 safeties while Cooper allowed only three.

BILL NOSKER IS KILLED IN ACTION OVER EUROPE

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29 — Ohio State University students and football fans today mourned the death of Maj. William C. (Bill) Nosker, 24-year-old former guard on the Buckeye football team.

A pilot of a B-24 Liberator bomber in the Mediterranean theatre, Nosker was killed over Italy August 15, his mother, Mrs. Leona C. Nosker, of Columbus, was informed by the War Department.

No details of how Nosker met death were revealed. He was only recently promoted from captain to major and had been decorated with the Air Medal, with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the Bronze Star and the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Nosker's widow, the former Jean Sanborn, lives with his mother in Columbus.

pervisory workers are seeking collective bargaining rights guaranteed by the Constitution. The Ford collieries, Curtisville, Pa., and the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal Company, Indiana, Pa., have refused to bargain with the union.

Moreover, McAlpine added, the National Labor Relations Board will not accept petitions from foremen or supervisory workers on the representation issue. The NLRB holds that foremen are entitled to collective bargaining, if a company willingly negotiates, but that the NLRB cannot force such bargaining. It can do so for the great mass of non-supervisory labor.

The union chief said his members had no recourse except to take strike ballots under the Smith-Connally act.

The case found the WLB in an old quandry. The WLB cannot take jurisdiction over cases of union representation since these are under the wing of NLRB. The WLB said the strike hurt the war effort, but acknowledged that it was legalized by the Smith-Connally law.

SOLDIER HOLDS LEAD IN OHIO OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29 — Firing a three-under-par 141, Pvt. Jack Harris, former Long Beach, Calif., professional now stationed at Patterson Field, held a one stroke lead today at the end of 36 holes of play in the 28th annual Ohio State Open golf tournament.

The 72-hole tourney opened yesterday over the tricky Columbus Country Club course and will be concluded today with 36 additional holes of play.

Tied for second, only one stroke behind Pvt. Harris were Verl Stinchcomb, of Ashtabula, and B. J. Berning, of Cincinnati, both prominent Ohio pros. The two carded identical scores, covering the morning 18 in 72 and the afternoon round in 70.

Another Cincinnati pro, Clay Gaddie, blasted the Scioto par to pieces in covering the second 18 in a three-under-par 69, after taking a disappointing 76 in the morning.

CONGRESS PROBE INTO STATUS OF PHILLIPS LOOMS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 — A congressional inquiry loomed today into the status of William Phillips, special presidential envoy, as a result of the declaration of Sen. Chandler (D) Ky., that he was recalled because he criticized British policy in India.

Chandler, who urged Mr. Roosevelt to make a full report to the senate "on conditions in India and on any foreign interference in American diplomacy" insisted that the public be entitled to the facts.

Sen. Shipstead (R) Minn., member of the foreign relations committee, backed up Chandler but Sen. Tom Connally (D) Texas, chairman, declined to comment on the senator's speech.

"It seems to me that the request for a report is reasonable," said Shipstead. "We are fighting to win the war and we ought to know if there is anything which interferes with this. The senate foreign relations committee ought to consider the matter."

Chandler said that Phillips, who was Mr. Roosevelt's ambassador to India and liaison man between the British and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, was declared "persona non grata" by the British and is coming home.

The Kentuckian revealed that he has a letter written by Phillips in which he discusses British interference and his criticism of British policy in India. He said he planned to read it if he were challenged on the senate floor.

waging war against the aggressor nation.

The importance of the time element in restraining aggression is cited by officials as the reason for the necessity of having the President in a position to act without seeking a vote of congress every time the security council decided to use force against an aggressor.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull believes that if war is to be prevented in the future, the United Nations must be prepared to act instantly the moment an aggressor state invades the territory of another nation.

Will you be lucky enough to have a glass roof over your head?

You hear a lot and read a lot about how the postwar world is going to be a kind of wonderland...

A wonderland of tear-drop automobiles, helicopters, clothing made from coal, and houses from glass.

It's all quite possible.

But let's not forget that these things won't come free of charge. Let's not forget that America as a country... Americans as individuals... will need money, and plenty of it, to make these dreams of a peacetime world come true.

Today you have that money.

Are you letting it slip through your fingers? Or are you using it to help your Country win the war... and help yourself enjoy the fruits of Peace?

Every War Bond you buy and hold does both these things. Every $3 you invest now, to back the Attack will bring you back $4 ten years from now when you may want and need those dollars much more than you do today.

So, keep on buying Bonds with every dollar you can scrape up. Hang on to them against all temptation.

There's no better way to back up your fighting men.

There's no better way to be sure of having the good things, the good life, in the world of tomorrow.

NO AIR MONOPOLY

SENATORS who have been studying the question of postwar aviation seem to think it will be a very neat job if, while foreign nations, including our allies, are concentrated on winning the war, our own nation goes ahead deliberately to grab the world's air transportation.

They put it more delicately, saying that the United States "would seem to be entitled to expect a position of pre-eminence in international air operations," but the implications are obvious. The trouble is not so much in what they say as in the way they say it. And such an attitude, so frankly expressed, can make needless difficulty between nations that must hang together and deal with each other in a sportsman-like way.

It should also be evident to American statesmen as well as private citizens that any undue efforts to limit or cripple the international business of our allies would probably be to our own disadvantage in the long run. All of the nations are going to need more trade, rather than less, for a long time to come, in order to restore a stricken and ravaged world.

PENS AND PENCILS

IT is probably inevitable that, in the combined confusion of a war and an election year, there should be trouble about voting. But in some states there seem to be needless fuss and confusion.

In Ohio, for example, it is required by law and by rulings of the secretary of state that ballots, in order to be valid, must be marked with a "black lead pencil." Just what special virtue or demerit there may be in the color of the pencil is not clear. Nor is it clear why pens, especially fountain pens carried habitually by so many voters, should be ruled out.

Musing on these mysteries, Reed M. Winegardner of Washington Court House, Ohio, urges a special legislative session. He wants to amend the law so that service men and women "may mark their ballots with pen and ink, lead pencil, black lead pencil, lead of a pencil, bullet, or in any other way, just so the precinct election officials, when they start to count that ballot, can determine what was the reasonable intent of the voter." And with this attitude both the G. I. and the civilian voter might agree.

Yes, these are terrible times; and on top of everything else comes the "insufferable" shortage of golf balls.

Superfortress Raids | Bombings Over Japan
Planned Months Ago | Were Booked at Cairo

WASHINGTON—At last it has been revealed that one of the main things accomplished at the Cairo conference between President Roosevelt and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek last December paved the way for the current Superfortress raids on Japan.

The disclosure was made by "China," a monthly publication of the official Chinese ministry of information.

While the Superforts had been in process of development before the outbreak of war, their theater of employment was not decided upon until the struggle was well under way. At Cairo the two leaders worked out the details about bases and use of local manpower to build the giant landing fields.

THE NATION'S CAPITAL is adding this story to its collection entitled "My Most Embarrassing Moment."

A Washington woman, traveling alone by train from the nation's capital to Chicago, noticed a lovely young woman sitting in the Pullman compartment directly across the aisle. They engaged in conversation and finally went to the diner together for lunch.

The woman from Washington told her new-found companion all about herself and finally remarked that her husband was a research engineer with the Navy in Washington.

"And what does your husband do?" she finally asked the young woman.

REPORTED BOOSTING DEWEY

WASHINGTON—Friends of gaunt, grey Bernie Baruch are chuckling over how he always has a political anchor out to windward. They describe him as the cat with nine lives—always landing right side up politically. Now it looks as if he were warming up to Dewey.

When Franklin Roosevelt was up for nomination in Chicago back in the almost forgotten days of 1932, Baruch fought to the last ditch for the late Governor Albert Ritchie of Maryland. Bernie was Ritchie's financial godfather. After the convention, he switched to FDR, plunked $77,000 into the Roosevelt campaign chest.

More recently, despite the fact that he was one month's host to Roosevelt at his South Carolina plantation, straws in the wind have indicated that elder statesman Baruch is veering toward Dewey.

One straw was the recent revelation that Baruch's long-time economic adviser, Fred Searls, Jr., had contributed $2,000 to Dewey's campaign fund. Searls had been placed in the White House by Baruch as adviser to War Mobilizer Byrnes.

Last week, further persuasive evidence reached the White House regarding Bernie Baruch's next political jump. Gathering for the opening of Darryl Zanuck's new film "Wilson," came ex-Governor James Cox of Ohio, Democratic candidate for President in 1920 who was defeated by Harding; also Albert Lasker, who managed Harding's campaign but who has been a close friend of Governor Cox's since.

Comparing notes on their way to the "Wilson" opening, Governor Cox remarked:

"Bernie Baruch has been trying to tell me what a great man Dewey is and what a fine President he would be. I used all the arguments on him, asking him to tell me how Dewey would be able to negotiate with Stalin and Churchill. But I couldn't convince Bernie. He had almost a fervor in his eye when he talked about Dewey."

"Yes," replied Albert Lasker, "that's exactly what Baruch has been trying to tell me."

WPB HOLDS UP LUMBER

With lumber one of the scarcest commodities in the whole war picture, a situation is boiling to a head inside the War Production Board wherein the lumber division has put obstacles in the path of developing 35,000 acres of choice pine near San Francisco.

The peculiar delays have caused tempers to boil inside the Government and may result in some nasty accusations on Capitol Hill. Inside fact is that the Army and the Navy both want the tract developed; the Office of Defense Transportation has indicated its okay, also the War Manpower Commission; and the U. S. Forest Service is ready to throw in some adjacent Government tracts.

Nevertheless, WPB lumber division officials, some of them previously with big lumber companies, continue to hold up approval.

The tract of timber is in Tehama County, California. It consists of 765,000,000 feet, chiefly ponderosa pine, the most critical of all lumber. For several years, it was in litigation, and previously the Diamond Match Company, the Winton Lumber

The "Cultural Lag"

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

SOCIOLOGISTS have a name for an attitude of mind, which they call "cultural lag." For instance, a large group of influential citizens subscribe, whether they know it or not, to Adam Smith's laissez-faire ideas about political economy. They believe, for instance, that periods of unemployment are the fault of the unemployed; it's a man's own fault, laziness or lack of initiative if he is unemployed. The modern economist recognizes that conditions in the world today have forced us to go on past that theory and place the responsibility of unemployment and its relief on the government.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

I do not know whether this is true or not. I am not a sociologist. I use it only because the term "cultural lag" is so appropriate to the thinking of many persons about the prevention of contagious diseases by individual vaccination of the entire population.

Triumph of Medicine

This, which has been accomplished with the diseases smallpox, diphtheria and typhoid fever, is the greatest triumph of modern medicine. Indeed, the triumph of science. It is a sheer reversal of the malignancy of nature—a leap of man's intellect, imagination and ingenuity. The only accomplishments of man that are comparable to it are his discovery that useful plants could be deliberately grown from the proper seeds, that animals can be domesticated, that fire can be controlled for useful purposes and the principle of the wheel and these are applications of the bounty of Nature while preventive medicine is, as I say, a reversal of the malignancy of Nature. It is as meteorologists were able to prevent tornadoes, floods, and earthquakes. And, let us add, the final advantage in this field is that these particular methods have been tried so long that we know that they will do exactly what is claimed for them, and they work not haphazardly but the same under all circumstances.

Yet in the face of all this there is always a group afflicted with the "cultural lag"—the anti-vaccinationists and their ilk—some crank who is not going to have his child filled with dead typhoid germs or diphtheria toxin poison, who continue to try to oppose these successes of the human genius.

These same people fall heavily for such bunk as testosterone to make old men young. But they oppose methods of prevention of diseases that in other days afflicted and killed millions of people all over the world regardless of climate, all year round regardless of season.

Anti-Vaccinationists Group

To tell a man of the year 1800 that before a century and a half had passed smallpox, diphtheria and typhoid fever would have disappeared from the surface of the civilized earth and would no longer afflict mankind would have been to invite flat incredulity. The mind of that man of 1800 represents today's group of anti-vaccinationists with the "cultural lag."

Typhoid fever is one of the best examples. Inoculation of each individual against typhoid fever began about 1912. In 1910 in 78 American cities there were 80,000 cases of typhoid fever and 4,500 deaths. In 1940 in the same cities with a greatly increased population there were about 700 cases of typhoid fever and about 120 deaths. This has been brought about largely by public sanitation, but individual inoculation is still necessary on account of the menace of carriers.

It is fair to say that the war against Japan could probably not have been prosecuted were it not for anti-typhoid vaccination. During the Spanish War with an army of 107,000 men the United States had 21,000 cases of typhoid fever. In the World War I with an army of 4,000,000, all inoculated against typhoid, we had 1,200 cases and most of these could be traced to careless or incomplete inoculations.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
F. E. W.—I have had my chest X-rayed for tuberculosis but always negative. Also the sputum for tubercle bacilli. But the tuberculin skin test is always positive. Why is this?

Answer: The skin tuberculin test is a general test to show whether a person has or ever had any tuberculosis. It is very sensitive and persists after healing has occurred—in fact for life. When ever a positive skin test is found it is wise to follow up with chest X-ray, etc., but if they are negative it can be concluded that there is no active tuberculosis.

A leading and popular resident of Talbot, sleepy little Chesapeake Bay village, is...
MRS. EUNICE REYNOLDS, elderly and unable to walk, but the possessor of young ideas. She has been dominated by her strong-willed granddaughter.

LAURA, who lives with her. Mrs. Reynolds hires...
ANNIE WILSON, personable young New Yorker, to be her nurse. Long-time fiancée of Laura is...
RUSSELL SMITH, conservative young attorney.

YESTERDAY: Russell goes home to find that his brother, Dan, has returned after several years' absence. Dan says that among other things he has been in jail.

CHAPTER FOUR

RUSSELL STOOD stiffly as Dan made his mocking reply to the statement that this was his home, too. "I don't think you grasp the importance of what I'm saying."

"Sure I did. This is home. What's mine is yours, and what's yours is mine. The first part doesn't mean much, but the second part is music to me. When do we eat?"

"I've already eaten. I have most of my meals in Weston."

"Ah, yes. The lawyer must eat within the shadow of the courthouse."

"There has been no reason for my eating here alone."

"I can see that. But now I'll be home, it's different. But about tonight..."

Dan broke off in a little laugh and a gesture of rubbing his stomach. Russell hesitated a moment, then went into the kitchen, where he unlocked a large cabinet which was piled with food in tins and glass jars. Dan's madcap blue eyes sparkled at the sight. He smacked his lips, then chortled.

"I'd certainly have busted off that lock if I'd known what was there. The whole place was locked up, incidentally, so I had to break a pane of glass to get in." He pointed to the window over the sink. "Why all the locks, anyway? Don't you trust whoever cleans for you?"

"Mother liked to keep things locked and eliminate temptation." Dan grinned. "Fame old Russell, aren't you? Still sticking to the letter of the law."

"I'm a lawyer."

"I know. And I'm a failure. Dan was to be so clever and do so much and set the world on fire. How sick you must have gotten of it all. Dan must go to special schools. Dan was an artist. Dan was a genius. Everything must give way to Dan. It seems funny now, doesn't it? You're the lawyer because you did everything for yourself, and the smart young brother is a tramp bumming a meal."

Russell put a hand on his shoulder. "I said this was your home. I mean it. You are to stay as long as you wish."

"Which you hope won't be too long."

"I wish you wouldn't put words

IT IS infuriating to have the devils of distribution ruin a lot of beautiful high cards in your hand. When this happens to you it is well to become philosophical, or at least try to. South took it with the dummy's A, discarding his spade, then ruffed the diamond 3, ruffed a club, ruffed a third round diamond, ruffed a second club, and led the diamond 10, which now was high, discarding his club 8. Mr. Hazen ruffed that with his heart A and laid down the spade A. South trumped that, ruffed the club K in dummy and took the rest of the tricks with trumps, getting all except the one ruffed by the trump A.

South in high glee wrote down the score—480 for making 4-odd redoubled, 400 for the two extra redoubled tricks at 200 each and 50 for making the redoubled contract, plus the value of the game.

Mrs. Dreisbach Hostess To Legion Auxiliary

Board Named To Nominate New Officers

Mrs. Orin W. Dreisbach, immediate past president of the 7th District, American Legion Auxiliary, entertained members of the Circleville unit at a delightful evening party at her home on Kingston pike Monday evening. The affair, which was marked by an excellent attendance, featured several announcements of interest to members and friends.

Mrs. Dreisbach was named as a delegate to the National American Legion convention in Chicago, Ill., in September, being chosen at the Ohio Department convention August 20-22 in Columbus.

At the meeting of the Ohio department, the local unit received two citations, one for Armistice Day roll call and the other for securing the full quota for membership.

Mrs. Charles Gusman, president of the Circleville auxiliary, gave an excellent report of the convention. Mrs. B. T. Hedges, also a delegate, interested the group with her report.

It was voted to present a gift to Mrs. A. M. Davidson, of Chillicothe, past president of the State auxiliary association. It was voted also to send a representative to the district meeting of Daughters of Union Veterans which is to be held in Circleville in October.

Mrs. Dreisbach, Mrs. Robert Young and Miss Maggie Mavis were named as members of the nominating committee which is to report at the next session.

During the closing social hour, a salad course was served at a table centered with pink and white asters and lighted with tapers.

Lutheran Family Circle

Lutheran Family Circle of Trinity Lutheran church will meet Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther List, near Circleville. In case of rain or cold weather, the meeting will be held at the parish house. The children are being asked to take their favorite pets or hobby and the girls their dolls, if they have no pets. It is suggested that the pets be in cage or box. Members are to take a picnic basket, the drinks to be furnished by the Lists. The meeting is planned as a county fair.

W. C. T. U.

Circleville W. C. T. U. will meet Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Warner, 490 East Main street, for the regular monthly session.

Mrs. Beck, Club Hostess

Mrs. Mary Beck, of West Main street, entertained members of her contract bridge club Monday at her home, three tables of players progressing during the evening. When scores were compared at the close of the games, Mrs. Charles Smith received high score prize and Miss Winifred Parrett, second.

Mrs. Beck served a light lunch at the close of the evening. Mrs. Elizabeth Davison, South Court street, will be hostess at the next club session.

STARS SAY—

CONTRADICTORY and conflicting conditions dominate on this day, the final outcome of which depending upon the wisdom, sagacity, perseverance and sound judgment brought to bear on precarious situations and circumstances. Primarily collaboration, and not dissension, jealousy, rivalry and competition, is imperative, as this may attract the wholehearted support and good will of those in high places, financially and in power. Work to this and toward the most cherished goals, whether business, professional, social or politically. But be alert to crafty and peculiar persons, doubtful intrigues and guard the health.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of exceptional opportunity for attaining important hopes and wishes, in the realm of business, the professions, financial or political life, with cor-

PIN-WORMS Now can be Beaten!

The miseries of Pin-Worms have been known for centuries, and many doctors have sought a way to deal with this dreadful pest that lives and grows inside the human body.

Today, thanks to an important scientific discovery, a new and highly effective treatment is being hailed by medical authorities. It is based on a remarkable drug known as gentian violet. This drug is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm tablet developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. J. Jaffe & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines.

P-W makes it unnecessary for you or your child to suffer in silence with the embarrassing rectal itch caused by Pin-Worms, or to take chances on the real distress they often create. The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to destroy Pin-Worms.

So watch for possible warning signs such as itching seat and nose, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting. If you suspect Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for a package of P-W and follow the simple directions carefully.

It is easy to remember: P-W for Pin-Worms!

FLIERS DRILLING HARD FOR PLAYOFF CONTEST

The Lockbourne Fliers get down to serious business today as they begin sharpening their batting eyes for the first-round playoff game with Allen Mills in a Sunday afternoon league feature to be played September 3.

Both teams finished up first-round play in a tie for the top spot and the title game was postponed so that second-round play could be completed. In the final round the Fliers are leading the pack with six wins and one defeat.

The Fliers have been absent from the baseball wars for one week. Their last game was a victorious stand over Hilltop Merchants at the base by the lop-sided score of 19 to 9.

Lt. Wm. Furlong, manager of the Fliers, has scheduled daily practice sessions this week in order that he may keep the G's in a hitting mood for the playoffs. The Fliers will workout from 5 to 7 p. m. nightly.

OHSAA STUDIES REVISED RULES

Move On To Let Servicemen Complete High School Athletic Careers

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29—By nightfall Ohio's High School Athletic Association will have had an opportunity to make its biggest unselfish contribution to scholastic sports in the Buckeye state.

The fate, the progress—in fact the entire Ohio high school athletic scheme for the next half dozen years—hinges on the action of the association's board of control as it meets tonight for the first time with its new commissioner, Harold W. Emswiler, of Columbus.

The big question which the board must decide concerns the eligibility after V-day of youths who were called off to war before finishing their high school work. Under present regulations those who have attained their twentieth birthday since entering service will be ineligible for further scholastic competition upon their return home.

In recent weeks scores of requests have poured into the scholastic athletic association's Columbus office asking modification of eligibility rules to permit returning servicemen to participate in sports while completing their studies.

Tonight's session will be the first in which the proposal has been considered formally and definite action probably will not be taken until a referendum vote is presented to the association membership—more than 1300 Class A and B high schools.

Certainly everything should be done to encourage returning veterans to complete as much schooling as possible and if lifting athletic eligibility barriers will help at all, the board should not deliberate long.

In Ohio the solution is an easy one. All that would have to be done would be rewording of the state's eligibility stipulations to allow returning servicemen past their 20th birthday to take part in athletics while concluding their high school education.

By the nature of the situation the lifting of the barrier would need only be temporary. Within three years after the war's end, the old 20-year-old clause could be put back into effect. For that matter, it would remain in effect even now—serving to exclude from athletics those youths who have not been away in service but who have reached the 20-year mark.

Ohio's new high athletic commissioner is strongly in favor of the proposal. Earlier this week he told Columbus sports writers: "Experience has shown that only about five percent of boys who drop out of high school ever return, so maybe it would be best if we could do something to encourage those in the service to complete their studies."

Incidentally, if the board lifts the ban, Ohio's scholastic sports program likely will be placed on its highest level. Youths returning from one,

The weatherman was blamed for the disappearance of five fur pieces last week. Following a brief respite from the heat, which ushered out fox and mink neckpieces, the thermometer rose so swiftly that five absent-minded actresses, actresses, including Ann Shepard of WORDS AT WAR, which had worn their furs to rehearsals, completely forgot about them on leaving. A few hours later, after notifying the police and turning the city upside down in a frantic search, they invaded the Lost and Found where their precious possessions awaited them. "It's the weatherman's fault," growled Ann.

Orchestra leader Victor Young attended a party last week where a child pianist of seven years played Beethoven's "Kreutzer Sonata." This work is written with several impressive, long pauses. During one of these pauses, an attractive Miss murmured, says Victor, "Why doesn't that youngster play something he knows?"

Don Rodney, Xavier Cugat's vocalist, has come up with the latest variation on the movie preview theme. He writes songs, then tries them out on service men before releasing them generally. Don's latest is "Do You Miss Me Sometimes?" a ballad, which he'll sing for members of Army and Navy camps, while on a West Coast tour with the Cugat organization.

BROWN ON ASF BILL

Presenting Dick Brown, Purple Heart veteran now attaining fame as a popular singer, "Your Armies Service Forces" hails the army's reconditioning program for disabled soldiers, in its broadcast on Wednesday. Brown, who saw action in the South Pacific as a fighter pilot, was wounded and received a medical discharge. Now recovered from his injuries, he is making rapid strides toward the top among singers in the popular field. He will describe his experiences, and sing. Also participating in the discussion will be three patients at the Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C. Pvt. Voters May Decide Muny Water Plant Ownership Problem

PETITIONS FOR NOVEMBER VOTE IN CIRCULATION

Utility Acts To Forestall City Condemnation Of Local Plant

Petitions were being circulated in Circleville Tuesday to place the question of municipal ownership of a water plant on the November ballot.

Circulation of the petitions was started Monday by the Ohio Water Service company, operator of the plant which now provides local water service.

According to the petition the question to be submitted to the voters on November 7 is a "yes or no" vote on municipal ownership of a water plant. H. B. Denman, manager of the Ohio Water Service company here, said the vote would give all a chance to decide whether or not they wish a municipally owned water service.

Negotiations between the city and the Ohio Water Service company for purchase of the local plant have been under way for several months. The company turned down an offer of $450,000 made by the city for the local holdings.

Since that time condemnation proceedings against the company have been started by city officials. The Ohio Public Utilities commission has been asked to make a survey of the plant here and to place a valuation on the property. Hearing on the request has been set for Sept. 7 by the commission.

If the ownership issue goes on the ballot the condemnation proceedings would be without purpose until after the voters had spoken at the polls.

Signatures Required

The petition must be signed by 10 per cent of the voters of Circleville in order to place the issue on the ballot. City Solicitor J. W. Adkins said Tuesday. It must be filed within 30 days after the condemnation ordinance passed by the mayor. The ordinance was filed with the mayor August 15 which makes September 15 the deadline date for filing the petition.

Ten days after the petition is filed with the city auditor the auditor certifies it to the board of elections. The elections board must receive the petition 40 days before the Nov. 7 election in order that the issue will appear on the ballot.

A majority of the vote at the November election is necessary to approve the issue.

Solicitor Adkins said the city could go ahead and file condemnation proceedings in the courts, but no trial date could be set until after the election. The ordinance passed by council does not become effective until 30 days after its passage, which makes Sept. 15 the first day the proceedings could be filed in the courts.

PETITION ASKS CLEANING OF WALNUT CREEK

County commissioners Tuesday had under study a petition to clean, deepen and straighten a section of Walnut Creek in Walnut township filed Monday by six taxpayers.

Bernice Speakman, A. Marie Rocky, Homer Cromley, C. E. Cromley, Chester J. Rocky and Harry C. Speakman signed the petition, which was accompanied by a $250 bond.

At their Monday meeting the commissioners approved vacating a section of a county road in Washington township and let a contract for piling to reinforce a road in Salt Creek township.

The roadway vacated is about eight-tenths of a mile of a road from the property of J. B. Woods and George C. Burkhardt to the Stout graveyard. No objections to the abandonment were filed, commissioners said.

Stansbury - Stout Corporation was awarded the contract for piling along Moccasin creek on the road in Salt Creek township on a bid of $2,805.50.

ESTATE INVENTORY

Inventory and appraisement of the estate of E. A. Brown, filed Monday in probate court, sets the value of the estate at $8,027, all in real estate. W. J. Goodman, Harley Leist and Charles Baker were the appraisers.

Robot Bomb Killed Wife Cooking Dinner

WITHIN MOMENTS OF A ROBOT BOMB hitting this house "Somewhere in Southern England," civil defense workers are on the scene. The man in the foreground was along the road when the bomb hit. He helped search the ruins, found his dog (right) safe in shelter but, after hours of digging, was told his wife had been killed while cooking their dinner. She was one of 4,735 killed in England by robot bombs up to August 2, and their house was one of the 17,000 destroyed. A friendly cop has brought the old man a cup of tea while ambulance girls (extreme left)—the crew of one of the ambulances given by Americans—collect the few belongings they can find for him.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

DIVORCE GRANTED

Divorce was granted the plaintiff on grounds of gross neglect in the suit of Kenneth E. Henn against Wynetta B. Henn Monday in Common Pleas Judge Meeker Terwilliger's court.

Suicide Fails

THWARTED in her attempt to leap from a New York apartment, Mrs. Hattie Beverly plunges through the air to a net suspended under her by policemen and firemen. Mrs. Beverly locked her bathroom door and waited on the window sill 30 minutes before leaping. A policeman, shown above, had been lowered almost to her window before jump. (International)

DEADLINE NEAR FOR PAYMENT OF REALTY TAX

Friday is the deadline to pay June real estate taxes without penalty. County Treasurer Robert G. Colville warned Pickaway county property owners Tuesday.

A 10 percent penalty will be added to any payments made after Friday, Mr. Colville explained. The June collection of the last half of 1943 taxes has been very good, Mr. Colville said, and the total collection is expected to be one of the biggest in recent years.

COURT OF HONOR

Boy Scout Troop 107, of the Methodist church, will have a court of honor at the church Friday at 8 p. m. At that time eight scouts will be advanced.

Dr. G. D. Phillips will be in charge of the court. Parents and friends of the scouts are invited to attend the program. John Magill is leader of the group.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

Company and other big outfits tried to buy it.

Now A. B. Angle, a small businessman, is trying to cut it, and had secured the definite support of the Smaller War Plants Corporation to the tune of $2,100,000.

ARMY NAVY OKAY SPURNED

However, Smaller War Plants cannot act without the okay of the WPB lumber division, and here Angle has got nowhere. The lumber division is supposed to approve projects okayed by the Army or Navy, and in this case Capt. W. J. Hines, U. S. Navy, San Francisco office, wrote to Philip Boyd, head of the lumber division, asking him to "give early consideration to this application." Also, Col. Fred G. Sherrill, lumber procurement officer for the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission in Washington, telephoned H. E. Holman of the lumber division, telling him he considered the project a good one and was ready to write him a letter to that effect if desired.

Holman, however, spurned the Army's okay.

Later Holman, talking to an official of the Smaller War Plants Corporation, accidentally dropped a remark which may be the giveaway as to why the big lumber boys in the WPB lumber division don't want the Tehama tract developed.

"The competition would be too tough," Holman remarked, then suddenly corrected himself. "I mean, the competition in getting equipment."

However, second-hand equipment to cut the tract is already available, and the WPB lumber moguls know it. They have taken another delaying step by sending Huntington Taylor to make a manpower survey of the area, despite the fact that this is the business of the War Manpower Commission, not the WPB.

Meanwhile, lumber continues one of the scarcest war materials in the nation, much more acute than steel or aluminum.

Note—Chief of the lumber division is Philip Boyd of the giant Weyerhaeuser Co., one of the biggest in the country. Assistant chief is Jack Winton of the Winton Lumber Co., which once tried to buy the Tehama tract.

Killed by Maquis

A PARIS REPORT says that Maurice Chevalier, former French film idol who also appeared in Hollywood productions in the 1920s, was killed by the Maquis. Chevalier was known to have been a collaborator with the Germans after the French armistice of 1940. (International)

KIWANIS HEARS SIDELIGHTS ON WAR IN INDIA

Kiwanians Tuesday had heard some sidelights on the war in India and China from a service man who has seen service in those areas.

First Sgt. Franklin Crites, home on furlough, was the speaker at the Monday evening meeting in Hanley's restaurant. He left in October, 1942, and saw service with the Air Transport Command in India and China before returning recently on leave.

In China he was stationed on the receiving end of flights over "the Hump" of materials for the Chinese soldiers. After talking briefly he answered questions of members. He told of the type of food available; housing conditions; reactions of the Chinese to American soldiers, and other interesting sidelights.

Other guests at the meeting were Mrs. Crites; Ensign Robert Hedges and Lt. Frank Barnhill.

Lt. Gov. Renick W. Dunlap presented to President Luther Bower a certificate awarded at the international convention to the Circleville club for being first in the Victory membership goal for the period ending in April. Mr. Dunlap also reported the local club was second in reports in the fifth division of the district.

ERECT NEW CABLE

City workmen and Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company employees Tuesday were erecting a new cable on Court street while motorists made their way through the city with traffic lights not working. Traffic lights went out of operation Monday when a short circuit developed in the old cable which served the lights.

"SNOW UNDER" HITLER'S SUPERMEN

a Labor Day Message

They know it now. The warlords of Europe and Asia can't drive their enslaved millions to any such miracles of production as those that are pouring from the assembly lines of free America.

Planes that fill the sky for hundreds of miles; a solid mat of ships that reaches from shore to shore; tanks, guns, and bombs in such quantities that defense walls crumble.

We salute the labor army that has equipped and landed a fighting army and is backing it to victory.
